

The Happy, Peaceful, Safe World Today

October 7, 2022

FSI News by Mark Conron – October 7, 2022

Is anyone happy, satisfied, and safe anywhere these days? Anyone feeling good about this coming winter? Is Covid over or not? Are other Pandemics lurking? What about the ratcheted up Russian nuclear threats? Anyone finding their wallets lighter with every trip to the gas station or grocery store?

In short, it's generally a tough time worldwide with no real end in sight.

So, what about the Healthcare market and the potential for a difficult winter.

Monkey Pox is still with us.

Ebola has had a new outbreak and those coming from Uganda to the USA will be screened.

The International Atomic Energy Agency out of Vienna is monitoring and preparing response scenarios in the event of nuclear power plant meltdowns in the Ukraine.

Worldwide, Covid - as tired as we all are of it - is hinting at a possible new surge this winter. A plethora of new omicron subvariants is cropping up - each one seemingly better at resisting current vaccines. Europe, led by Germany and France is seeing increases even in advance of winter. And everywhere - including the USA - the general feeling about further booster shots is Ho-Hum at best - a worrying trend to be sure.

Hurricane IAN* adds a whole new dimension - both for Florida and for all the first responders arriving to help - they need food, shelter, decon showers at the end of each day, and medical care as a certainty.

Healthcare and First Responder Preparedness must be the key - Vaccines/treatments, PPE, decon shower systems, drive thru vaccine shot shelters, isolation shelters/chambers, command/sleeping shelters, and mobile field hospital systems are all in need.

* FSI has donated to Hurricane IAN disaster relief and sends our prayers and best wishes to all effected.
