

The World's a Mess – and now Monkey Pox

FSI News by Mark Conron - June 14, 2022

As I write this BA.4 and BA.5 variants (mild we are assured) of Covid 19 are spreading in the USA and worldwide - but we are all so tired of Covid it barely registers in our minds. But suddenly we have Monkey Pox - sounds lovely - spreading worldwide. What else can there possibly be out there that is headed our way. Hmm...there's still Ebola raising its' ugly head in Africa.....

The point is no one knows for sure and the conflicting information we get from WHO, the CDC, and other such agencies just seems to confuse matters, not clarify them.

Preparedness must be the key - Vaccines/treatments, PPE, decon shower systems, drive thru vaccine shot shelters, isolation shelters/chambers, mobile field hospital systems, et al. All easy to say but then there's the equally divided, seemingly dysfunctional Congress that must allocate the funds. Will they? How much? When?

FSI personnel are now heading to Germany where we invite you to see our preparedness products at Interschutz in Hannover, Germany June 20-25, Hall 017 Stand B28.

Stay safe one and all!
